DELFINGEN continues to grow on the global market and inaugurates a new plant in Morocco

DELFINGEN, global automotive supplier and leading manufacturer of on-board networks protection solutions and fluid transfer tubing, has just inaugurated a new site in Tangier, Morocco, an area considered by many as the new Detroit of North Africa.

DELFINGEN has been active in Morocco since the year 2000 with a production plant in Casablanca followed by a logistics center in Tangier in 2003. The company now enters a new stage of strategic importance with the launching of a production facility of over 8,500 square meters in the Tangier Free Zone (TFZ). This significantly strengthens DELFINGEN's industrial footprint in the area.

This new site, with already over one hundred co-workers, meets DELFINGEN's standards of industrial excellence, and will be specialized in the manufacturing of technical tubing and sleeves for automotive wiring harness protection, and in the assembly services for sealing systems in partnership with the HUTCHINSON company.

This new step reflects the Group's commitment to continuously assist its customers by being near their sites to enable higher reactivity and, thus, better service.

Gérald Streit, CEO of DELFINGEN, comments:

"The impressive economic take-off of the automotive industry in Morocco, the trust we have in the governance of the country, together with our experience in local production for over fifteen years prompt us to make significant investments in this area of the world over the next three years."

The Grand Opening ceremony took place in presence of Bernard Streit, President of the DELFINGEN Group, Gérald Streit, and the Executive Committee. Representatives of the TFZ, local authorities, as well as many customers and partners joined them to celebrate the event.
